

A New Era in Joint Support

Over the past ten years, advances in the nutritional sciences have paved the path for products such as Glucosamine, SAME, Chondroitin, MSM, and others. As a result, millions have found relief and continue to use these products to support healthy mobility. What's more, the science behind today's joint support products continues to improve. Celadrin® is one of the best examples in the joint health category.

Celadrin® Liposome Lotion is a novel blend of acetylated fatty acids, MSM, Arnica, Menthol, and other synergistic agents. Applied topically, Celadrin® penetrates deep to enhance cell membranes and support healthy mobility and joint function.

Positive user success rates and virtually no known side effects have helped Celadrin® quickly become one of the most talked about joint support compounds. Strong supporting research continues to showcase its ability to provide fast, cumulative relief when applied topically. Unlike popular non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) that simply mask joint discomfort, Celadrin® Lotion targets the source by enhancing cell membranes and restoring the vital fluids that cushion bones and joints. Ultimately, this is what facilitates a free range of motion without the bone-on-bone grinding that limits so many from their daily activities.

Working in much the same manner that other fatty acids, this patented blend of esterified fatty acids spark positive changes at the cellular level. As this occurs, cell membranes become more responsive and less prone to articular cartilage deterioration.

“How fast does it work?”

Not only does it work well, studies continue to showcase the safety and ability of Celadrin® to work quickly. This is can be attributed to the advanced Liposomal delivery system, and deep absorption of the active ingredients.

In 2005, a University-led, placebo controlled study examined 42 patients who struggled with their knees. After just 30 minutes, 100% of the subjects treated with a topical Celadrin® lotion reported significant improvement in joint mobility and support. Even more impressive, the participants all demonstrated continuous and restorative benefits over the course of the 30-day study.

“How do I use Celadrin®?”

One of the most appealing elements of Celadrin® is the ease in which it can be used. Celadrin® contains compounds that are very safe, and capable of being used once, for a few days, or for as long as your doctor sees fit. Some users have reported greater success when using the topical lotion in combination with other joint support supplements, such as glucosamine, chondroitin, MSM, and others. Still, no two people are alike. The severity and nature of each individual concern will vary from person to person.

Therefore, it is recommended that you consult with your physician to determine how often you need to apply Celadrin® Lotion based on your particular situation.

“What if I don't have joint problems?”

If your joints are strong and your mobility is fluid, Celadrin® is one of the easiest and most effective ways to keep them healthy. Cartilage breakdown is gradual. You might not even notice. Your joints may feel fine today, but that can change quicker than you might imagine. Think of Celadrin® as cartilage insurance.

You may not see an immediate need to support your cartilage right now, but it's easier to maintain it than to rebuild it after it's gone. Applying Celadrin® Lotion to areas known for age-related cartilage breakdown is a wise decision.

“What should I look for in a Celadrin® product?”

You should always look for a quality formula from a trusted, well-established manufacturer with a history of producing quality products. Protocol For Life Balance™ Celadrin® Liposomal Lotion is scientifically formulated, tested for safety and potency, and guaranteed to be of the highest possible quality.
